
Bugs

Posted by Steve - 2008/04/26 06:59

We've tested the new site as much as possible, but inevitably you'll run across errors, bugs, and assorted other problems. When this happens, let us know (be as detailed as possible--if you get an error code, cut and paste it) and we'll try to fix it.

=====

Re:Bugs

Posted by jlhburnett - 2008/05/02 16:07

Anything relating to "show new posts" seems to be not syncing correctly.

The "recent posts" block at the bottom of the forum home page doesn't show some new posts (i.e. Ian's Torchwood post)

There was at one time a problem with the "recent post" column, but that seems to be fixed.

The "show latest post" link along the top doesn't seem to grab all the posts it should, either.

=====

Re:Bugs

Posted by jlhburnett - 2008/05/02 16:10

jlhburnett wrote:

The "recent posts" block at the bottom of the forum home page doesn't show some new posts (i.e. Ian's Torchwood post)

...The "show latest post" link along the top doesn't seem to grab all the posts it should, either.

snap Got it. These two areas aren't showing anything posted in child boards.

=====

Re:Bugs

Posted by Steve - 2008/05/02 18:26

Just moved them up to top-level forums, which actually makes more sense now anyway. That should take care of it.

=====

Re:Bugs

Posted by jlhburnett - 2008/05/02 19:52

I think it looks better and navigates better this way too. :)

=====

Re:Bugs

Posted by jlhburnett - 2008/05/04 14:02

...although, it looks like my "Giant Mecha Robots" post may have morphed into a subforum or something. Following the link in "recent posts" takes me to the QAGS forum. The post isn't there (no big deal, I can repost) but the little forum tree near the top shows "Giant Mecha Robots" branching off as a forum.

=====